THE EDITOR'S VIEW

Hello Brothers,

Here we are in April already. Time really flies, doesn't it? But as you know the past few months haven't been dull. Planning has begun in earnest for some of our coming activities; The April & June Ordeals, with their elections and ceremonies; The Area III-A Conference in June and the 1972 season at our camps. Already, the Annual Lodge Banquet has been held (see p.9) and was a great success. Bob Hartman and his committee deserve much credit for their efforts. And what of the Wulamoc? In recent issues, we have tried to get away from the "16 pages of stale news" format of the past and introduce some new and interesting items like the series of articles on the history of our lodge, and the "Octoraro Trader" column. Also we have tried to include more pictures, more interesting titles and captions, and the like to make the Wulamoc more interesting. And how about our new cover??? Many thanks to Brother "Doc" Stavrides for his efforts. But what does all this bring us to? What it brings us to, we hope, is a better lodge and better activities for YOU, the members, to take advantage of. Without your interest all the work of the Officers and Executive Committee is for naught.

See you soon,

Jim

LETTER TO THE EDITOR:

Exception has been taken to 6th paragraph on page 8 of March issue Wulamoc by "Bundlekeeper", QUOTE:

The eleventh and most recent issue is another plain copy "mistake". It is an exact reprint of the two black bordered issues except that the nails in the horseshoe are red!!!! Come on spectacular mistake maker, whenever you are, who ever heard of a horseshoe with red nails???? In the opinion of the Octoraro Trader, this idea of slight variations has gone a little bit too far.

"The Octoraro Trader" is unknown to the "Bundlekeeper", but a RETRACTION of the above will be expected in the NEXT issue of Wulamoc. "The Trader" should have the facts prior to his making statements he does not know about!

Herewith is "proof" of 'mistake'!

ANY TIME "The Trader" or ANY other Brother desires the job - please call one of below:

Dear Octoraro Trader:

We have enjoyed reading the very interesting history of your lodges' pocket flaps in the Wulamoc. Forty-Six years is a long time to go back.

I wish to comment on the "eleventh" issue of this design. This was of course, not a new issue but, merely a reorder of the "tenth" design with white nails. We indeed "goofed" with the red nails and your executive committee agreed to accept these to save us from a considerable loss. If this was a means of dissatisfaction, we would have much sooner remade this complete lot. Come to think of it I never saw a horseshoe with white nails either. Maybe this "odd lot" will become a collectors item some day. In any event we thought the blame should be properly placed, to set the record straight.

We do in deed appreciate the business we have received from Octoraro in the past six years and wish the lodge the best of luck in the future.

Sincerely,

Carl J. Moritz, Jr.

THE OCTORARO TRADER

To start off, the Octoraro Trader would like to apologize to any and all persons offended by the reference to the mysterious mistake maker in the last issue. The issue with red nails was indeed a manufacturer's error.

One of the best activities that a patch trader, or anyone, can attend is a National Jamboree. In addition to the regular Jamboree program, there are always areas set aside for trading. Tents and tables are set up through out the Jamboree where you can trade almost anything. Jamborees have been a part of Scouting since 1935.

The first Jamboree was scheduled for 1935 and was to be held in Washington, D.C. but was canceled due to a flu epidemic. The patch had a picture of the capitol on it. The Jamboree was rescheduled for 1937 and again for Washington. This was the first real Jamboree held in the United States. The patch was round with the Washington Monument on it. This patch and the Jamboree Neckerchief are very valuable. The patch is felt embroidered. 34,000 scouts attended the Jamboree.

The next Jamboree was not held until 1950. This one was held at Valley Forge. There were two patches issued at this Jamboree, one was a flimsy canvas patch with a silk screened design. The other was a regular woven patch which was to be sent out to the participants after the Jamboree. Each scout who attended received two of the second, and better quality patches. These patches depicted George Washington kneeling. There were 47,000 scouts in attendance.

The next Jamboree was held in 1953 at Irvine Ranch in California. It was the first Jamboree not held on the east coast. There were 45,000 scouts in attendance at this Jamboree. The Jamboree back patch, which was the first of its kind issued, is one of the hardest Jamboree patches to get. The patch and neckerchief show a covered wagon.

In 1957, the Jamboree was brought back to the east coast, and was again held at Valley Forge Park. This Jamboree was one of the better ones as far as local patch traders are concerned since many scouts from our Council attended. The patch again showed George Washington kneeling with the words "Onward for God and my Country" around part of the inside circle. 52,000 scouts attended this Jamboree which was the first where leather back patches were issued.

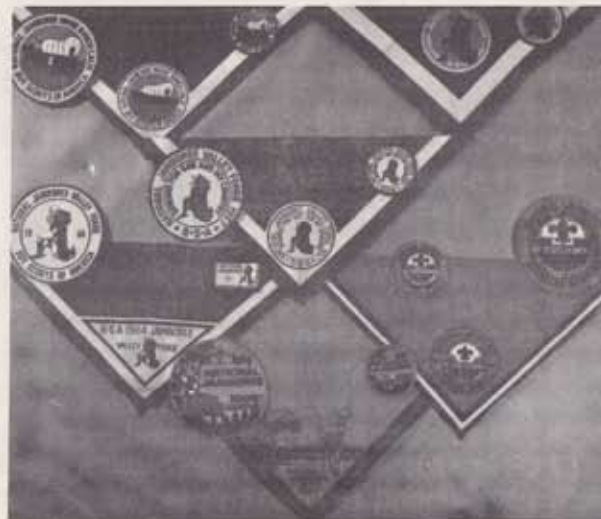

Three years later, in 1960, the National Jamboree was held at Colorado Springs, Colorado. This year was the 50th Anniversary of Boy Scouting. During this year, a complete set of patches for Philmont, Schiff, Jubilee Camporees, Cub Field Days, and the Jamboree were issued, and were all of the same basic design.

The Jamboree patches were gold or yellow in color and had red lettering which said "National Jamboree - Colorado Springs". This was the largest Jamboree so far with 56,000 scouts in attendance.

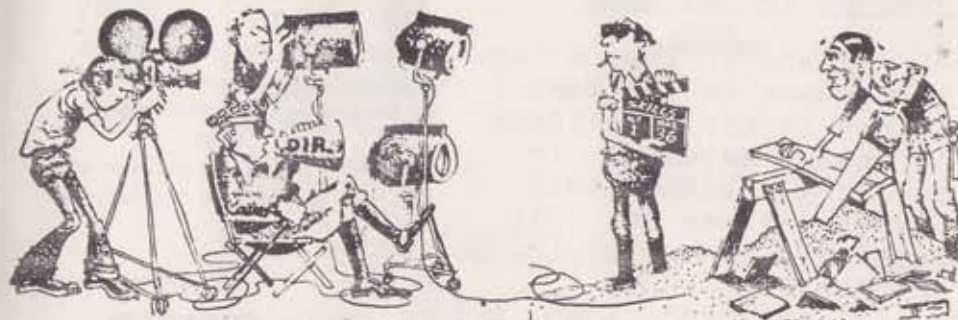

The Jamboree came back to Valley Forge in 1964, for the last time, due to the growing population of the area. This was the first Jamboree in history not to issue a small round patch. Instead a fully embroidered rectangular patch, showing George Washington kneeling and bearing the words: "National Jamboree - 1964" was issued. There was also a rectangular silk patch issued which is valued at nearly twice as much as the embroidered patch.

The latest National Jamboree was held in 1969 at Farragut State Park in Idaho. This Jamboree had the second lowest attendance figure with only 35,000 scouts. The patch is fully embroidered with a buck in two shades of tan overlooking a lake. The forest is in two shades of green with a gold fleur-de-lis. All of this is on a gold background and is one of the best looking Jamboree designs yet.

That concludes this installment. Look for articles on National OA Conference patches and other Area III-A lodge's flaps in coming issues.

ALL BROTHERHOOD MEMBERS:-

At each BRDEAL weekend, Brother John RASMUSSEN and Committee, are on hand and available to take photographs of ALL BROTHERHOOD MEMBERS.

The Lodge is compiling a "ROGUES GALLERY" of ALL BROTHERHOOD MEMBERS for the purpose of identification when Brotherhood Members become eligible (after two (2) years in the Brotherhood Honor), to be a CANDIDATE for the VIGIL HONOR.

With over 1,200 Lodge Members it is sometimes quite difficult for the Vigil Fellowship to identify who is who by name only - a picture has proved to be the answer !

Brotherhood Members - IF you HAVE NOI as yet had your picture taken by this Committee - PLEASE be sure to CONTACT Brother RASMUSSEN and arrange for a time to be photographed.

Starting with APRIL 1972 Brotherhood Ceremony, ALL CANDIDATES for Brotherhood MUST PRESENT a picture of themselves to the Chairman of the Brotherhood Committee, AT REGISTRATION TIME, to be eligible to take the Brotherhood Ceremony. NO PICTURE - NO CEREMONY !

CAMPING PROMOTION

As was done last year, Octoraro Lodge is sponsoring a 100% Patrol Program.
